What is a Performance Site?

A performance site is considered to be the site where the research is being conducted using a MCG, MCGHI or Augusta VAMC initiated research protocol or grant and/or using personnel employed by these sites.

MCG should be checked as the performance site if the protocol will be conducted by an MCG faculty, staff or student or if MCG resources will be used.

MCGHI should be checked as the performance site if the protocol will be conducted by an MCGHI staff member or if MCGHI resources will be used.

The VAMC should be checked as the performance site if the protocol will be conducted by an Augusta VAMC staff member or if Augusta VAMC resources will be used.

MCG and MCGHI should be checked as performance sites if the protocol will be conducted by an MCG faculty, staff or student and the subjects or human derived materials will be recruited from MCGHI.

MCG and the VAMC should be checked as performance sites if the protocol will be conducted by an MCG faculty, staff or student and the subjects or human derived materials will be recruited from the Augusta VAMC.

MCG and MCGHI should be checked as performance sites if the protocol will be conducted by an MCG faculty, staff or student and the subjects or human derived materials will be recruited from MCGHI.

MCG, MCGHI, and the Augusta VAMC should be checked as performance sites if the protocol will be conducted by an MCG faculty, staff or student and the subjects or human derived materials will be recruited from MCGHI and the Augusta VAMC.

If the protocol will be conducted by MCG faculty, staff or student and the subjects or human derived materials will be recruited from sites other than MCGHI or the Augusta VAMC, then both MCG and the other site should be checked as performance sites.
